ADVANCED SKIN ANALYSIS COURSE

A new one-day course to bring a greater understanding and inspire the use of advanced skin analysis techniques. The course will cover some background anatomy and physiology of the skin. It will then go on to discuss a variety of advanced skin analysis techniques available, both more established and emerging techniques. There will be time for practical experience with a range of advanced skin analysis equipment.

The course is aimed at all those that carry out skin assessments and recommend products and treatments for improving different aspects of skin condition. No prior knowledge or use of skin analysis techniques is required just enthusiasm and a willingness to ask questions and learn.
